Nixon Finds A Difference

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says the shooting down of a U.S. reconnaissance plane this week "was a completely surprise attack," presenting a different crisis than that faced by President Lyndon Johnson when the USS Pueblo was seized.

Haunted perhaps by a campaign taunt in which he referred to North Korea as "a fourth rate military power," Nixon drew some distinctions Friday between the two incidents.

In his campaign for president last year, Nixon promised he would not allow the nation to suffer another dilemma such as the Jan. 23, 1968, capture of the intelligence ship Pueblo by North Korean patrol boats.

No Retaliation
Faced with the downing of the Navy intelligence plane this week, Nixon has chosen—as did Johnson—to follow a course of diplomacy rather than retaliation.

But, Nixon told a White House news conference, the two incidents are not parallel. He said the Pueblo was threatened in advance. Had there been a similar threat against reconnaissance flights over the Sea of Japan, Nixon said, he would have ordered protective action.

The Pueblo seizure, Nixon said, "was quite different in two respects."

"One, there was some uncertainty for some time as to where the Pueblo was. Present indications are that the Pueblo was in international waters. But there was some uncertainty."

Nixon said there was never any doubt as to the location of the intelligence plane—at least 28 miles outside Korean airspace at its closest approach to the Communist nation.

"Also," he said, "in the case of the Pueblo, the North Koreans had warned and threatened the Pueblo for a period of weeks before they seized it."

He said flights like the one the Koreans shot down have been going on for years without incident.

"Under these circumstances," Nixon said, "it was a completely surprise attack in every sense of the word and therefore did not give us the opportunity for protective action that I would have taken had it been threatened."

Criticism of the way Johnson handled the Pueblo affair was a constant theme of Nixon's campaign for the presidency.

President Nixon makes a point Friday at his White House news conference on the current crisis over U.S. reconnaissance flights off the coast of North Korea.

Navy Set To Secure Spy Craft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Potent U.S. naval forces, including the battleship New Jersey and possibly a pair of aircraft carriers, were reported steaming to new positions today to provide protection for American intelligence missions off North Korea.

The Pentagon announced redeployment of extensive forces Friday shortly after President Nixon ordered resumption of reconnaissance flights with the promise they will cease to be "fair game" for North Korean jets.

Flights off the North Korean coast were halted Tuesday after an EC121 reconnaissance plane with 31 men aboard apparently was shot down. Only two bodies have been found in the Sea of Japan where the craft fell.

Protective Step
Redeployment of the naval forces was viewed as a protective step rather than a threat of retaliation against North Korea.

The New Jersey, which had been scheduled to arrive in Long Beach, Calif., today after duty off Vietnam, was ordered to turn around and return to the Western Pacific.

While no announcement was made of the strategy to be used in providing protection for the reconnaissance planes, indications were fighters would be stationed where they could come to the swift rescue of any threatened U.S. aircraft. Fighters would be kept in the air during intelligence missions, but not flying wing-to-wing with the reconnaissance aircraft.

Except for the New Jersey, the Pentagon did not say what ships were involved and the announcement stopped short of specifying the new positions actually were in the Sea of Japan. A Defense Department spokesman said only the redeployment involved "a number of different types of vessels."

One carrier believed on the way to the Sea of Japan is the USS Kittyhawk which carries 90 warplanes. The Kittyhawk left Hong Kong with two destroyers earlier this week without any announcement of its destination.

In ordering resumption of the intelligence flights, Nixon pronounced them vital to the security of U.S. troops stationed in South Korea.

Nixon revealed for the first time that the United States is capable of "reading" radar pictures of another country from miles away.

He said both showed that the EC121 was 90 miles offshore—well outside North Korean territory—when shot down.

3 Black Spokesmen at OSU Separate State for Negroes Seen as Cure for Violence

OSHKOSH — Three prominent black spokesmen, their racial views ranging from moderate to extreme predicted Friday continued racial violence before the Negro finds his place in society.

That place, they felt, is in a state separate from the whites, whether geographic or socio-economic.

The three — Roy Innis, Mrs. Medgar Evers and Julian Bond — gave a "black view of white America" to about 1,500 persons attending the first day of a two-day symposium at Oshkosh State University.

Innis, the national director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and a strong advocate of black power and black self-determination, decried integrationist answers to the race problem.

Convention Nominee
Bond, the 29-year-old Georgia legislator who was the Wisconsin Delegation's favorite for vice president at last summer's Democratic National Convention in Chicago, agreed integration is "not desirable if it means black people will lose themselves."

Mrs. Evers, widow of the assassinated civil rights leader in Mississippi, said while she favored races "working together," she wasn't sure it would "work out that way."

Mrs. Evers added that during her recent travels she had noticed more Negroes turning away from integrationist goals.

Innis said the solution to the race issue had to be "mutually satisfactory to both sides" and claimed that all powers — social, political and economic — were necessary to address the problem.

He said the blacks were segregated and treated unequally because of "rigged opportunities which thwarted maximizing 'our interests and abilities.'"

Innis said people move out of their own self-interest and that he hoped to provide some "enlightened self-interest."

Black States
He called for a movement "from the land of the oppressor," either through the establishment of black states, as advocated by a Negro nationalist group, or a redefinition of national political units.

He felt integration was not possible in a country dominated by "racist institutions" which form "a perpetual motion machine."

The separate socio-economic would be located where the blacks dominated. "In our area, we control the action," Innis

'Lesson for Charlie' Tanks Repel Enemy

SAIGON (AP) — American armored units killed 100 North Vietnamese in two battles but lost at least four tanks and seven other armored vehicles, military spokesmen said today.

A day-long battle Friday 50 miles northwest of Saigon cost the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment four tanks—two new 16-ton Sheridans and two 50-ton M48 tanks—plus seven killed and 28 wounded, field reports said.

Later Friday night, three armored personnel carriers were destroyed by fire and four other tracked vehicles were badly damaged when North Vietnamese sappers attacked a "wagon train" circle of tanks and personnel carriers three miles southeast of the demilitarized zone.

Despite the loss of the tanks in the first battle, armored cavalry officers called it a victory. They said 82 enemy bodies were found after the battle.

"It was a good lesson for Charlie. He learned he can't mess around with the Sheridans and get away with it," said Col. Jimmie Leach of Hampton, N.C., commander of the 11th Regiment.

Run Into Ambush
The fighting erupted when units of the regiment ran into a North Vietnamese ambush in Tay Ninh province. The Sheridan tanks, artillery and helicopter gunships pounded the enemy for most of the day.

Maj. John Bronson of Rochelle, Ga., a squadron commander, said the first rocket grenade was fired prematurely by the North Vietnamese attackers "and that enabled us to get them before they could carry out the rest of the ambush."

The 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment and a squadron of the 25th Division are the only units in Vietnam equipped with Sheridan tanks, which have been undergoing combat evaluation since they arrived in mid-February. So far 10 have been destroyed and several have been damaged in action.

Surprise Attack
Associated Press correspondent Robert Ohman reported from Cam Lo that 13 Americans were killed and 24 were wounded in the other surprise attack against a defensive circle set up by 9th Regiment Marines and supporting armor of the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Infantry Division.

Rocket grenades knocked out three armored personnel carriers in the first minutes of the battle, clearing a path for enemy sappers who raced through and hurled satchel charges at three tanks and 17 other APCs.

Helicopter gunships laid a ring of fire around the embattled troops until a second troop of tanks and APCs arrived. Then the North Vietnamese withdrew.

U.S. military spokesmen reported today that North Vietnamese troops have built a series of big concrete gun emplacements into mountainsides along the South Vietnam-Laos border to fire on American and South Vietnamese special forces camps and bases.

The guns are mounted on railroad tracks and protected by giant steel doors, the spokesmen said.

They added that three such batteries were reported damaged or disabled by recent American air strikes. But the spokesman said the gun emplacements are defended by anti-aircraft fire, making aerial observation and attacks extremely hazardous.

The big guns are located on the Vietnam side of the border, the officers said, but U.S. troops have not been sent into the area because of the risk of "crossing the border by accident."

Story of Survivors Withheld by U.S.?

CHICAGO (AP) — The national chairman of the Remember the Pueblo Committee said Friday the U.S. government may have information that seven men survived the destruction of a Navy intelligence plane shot down Tuesday over the Sea of Japan.

The Rev. Paul Lindstrom told a news conference, "It is within the realm of possibility that our government has such information and is withholding it because of the public outcry that might result" from the latest incident involving North Korea and the United States.

Lindstrom reiterated information he said his committee had received Tuesday from an unidentified government source indicating seven members of the 31-man crew of the EC121 had parachuted into the sea.

"These men may have survived, and they may have been picked up by North Korean gunboats," he said.

Lindstrom also repeated an earlier statement in which he said information furnished his committee indicated Soviet involvement in the shooting down of the unarmed Navy plane.

"Our information is that two Soviet-built planes which shot the U.S. plane came from the Soviet air base at Vladivostok," he said.

GI Escapes After Year as Viet Cong Captive

SAIGON (AP) — An American soldier listed as missing for more than a year has been found in Tay Ninh province, 18 days after he escaped from the Viet Cong, the U.S. Command said today.

He was identified as Spec. 5 Thomas H. Van Putten, 21, of Caledonia, Mich. Spokesmen said he was suffering from malnutrition and dehydration but otherwise was in "good condition," when found Thursday.

Van Putten was reported missing Feb. 10, 1968. The command said he was riding as a guard on a road scraper in Tay Ninh province about 70 miles northwest of Saigon when he disappeared. His vehicle was "found off the road," headquarters said.

Machine Operator
At that time he was serving as a construction machine operator with the 79th Engineer Group and had been in South Vietnam since Feb. 20, 1967.

The command gave no details saying only that "he escaped captivity about 18 days before being found" by 17th Cavalry troops attached to the U.S. 25th Division.

"I blew a kiss to the gunner on the LOH—light observation helicopter—that picked me up," headquarters quoted Van Putten as saying. "I'll never forget that big, beautiful blond moustache the pilot had. When I jumped in the chopper, I grabbed his shoulder and yelled 'I love you.' That was really something. And I hugged the gunner."

The command said the young soldier's first words to the Americans were: "I've escaped from the enemy. Give me something to eat."

Then he ate some canned ration chicken with noodles, fruit cocktail and drank some warm root beer.

"I've never tasted such delicious food in all my life," the GI was quoted as saying.

Before being captured, Van Putten weighed about 185 pounds. Spokesmen said he now weighs 121 pounds.

"The first time I looked in the mirror—that isn't me," he said.

Protesters Lock Trustees Inside Room

Students Want
To Rename School;
Harvard is Calm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Demonstrating students kept 25 trustees locked in a conference room at Atlanta University Center today but protests were ended or suspended at several other major campuses.

Harvard students voted to suspend their strike for seven days after the university agreed to reduce the status of the Reserve Officers Training Corp to an extracurricular activity. Stanford University protesters ended a nine-day sit-in at an electronics lab.

A new protest by a breakaway group of Students for a Democratic Society at Columbia University fizzled when it failed to get any widespread support.

Rename University
The dissidents at Atlanta University Center, a six-college complex, were demanding that the schools be renamed for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and that white trustees resign.

One of those locked in was Dr. Hugh M. Gloster, president of Morehouse College, King's alma mater and part of the complex. He said he would resign rather than accede to the demands under duress.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., a Morehouse trustee, walked out of the room Friday declaring his family wanted no part of the tactics protesters were using in seeking to honor his slain son.

In Cambridge, Mass., a mass meeting of 3,500 Harvard students voted 2-1 to suspend the eight-day strike touched off by the arrest of 200 sit-ins at the administration building.

However, SDS members and about 150 black students seeking

Celtics Edge Past Knicks, Claim NBA's Eastern Title

Jones Spark In 106-105 Boston Win

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics, written off as tired old men just a short time ago, are back in familiar surroundings—the title round of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Acting like the old pros they are, the Celtics won the Eastern Division playoff for the 12th time in 13 years by hanging on for a 106-105 victory over the New York Knicks Friday night in steamy Boston Garden.

The Celtics, who have won the NBA championship 10 times since Player-Coach Bill Russell entered the league and became a defensive genius 13 years ago, managed only one victory in seven starts against New York during the regular season.

Napoles Wins Title Bout

By JACK STEVENSON
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Cuban refugee Jose Napoles waited five years for his title shot and when he got it, the fight proved no contest as he hammered Curtis Cokes into submission after 13 rounds for the welterweight crown.

With his eyes swollen shut, Cokes simply couldn't see to continue fighting and although the boxer wanted to go on, manager Doug Lord asked the bout at The Forum Friday night be halted.

"I knew about the 10th round when he didn't like those left hooks to the body that I was winning," Napoles declared through an interpreter. "I followed our plan of keeping Cokes in the center of the ring and not let him fight off the ropes."

Much Shorter
Napoles, who now calls Mexico City his home, weighed 143 to 145½ for the champion, and stood an inch shorter. Cokes had two inches in reach but that didn't help. Napoles kept boring in with his relentless attack.

"I just couldn't get off," the ex-champion said through swollen lips. "I just couldn't get started. Yes, I'd like a rematch."

Lord said, "you'll see a different Curtis Cokes in a rematch. If you don't, I'll retire him."

Cuco Conde, the new champion's manager, said they had agreed to give Cokes a chance to get the 147 pound title back but it remained undecided if the fight would be in the United States or Mexico City.

A crowd of 15,878 at the Forum paid a gross gate of $195,480, a new California indoor record surpassing the $193,000 drawn by bantams Lionel Rose of Australia and Chuchito Castillo of Mexico last winter.

Cokes collected $80,000 and Napoles $20,000.

California Team Rolls High Score In Classic Play

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A California squad of professionals turned in a total 6,413 early today in classic team competition for the first of the trophies being offered more than 32,000 legions in the 66th annual American Bowling Congress tournament.

Franks Sixth HR
In addition to Blair's two homers, Frank Robinson tagged his sixth of the season, extending his hitting streak to 11 games, and Elrod Hendricks added a two-run shot.

The six-game output by the Dick Weber Wrist Masters of Santa Ana, Calif., included 3,132 Thursday and three more games late Friday of 1,088, 1,119 and 1,074.

The team's 6,413 total is the third highest in the division's history, but 123 pins less than the record set in 1966 by the Shur-Hooks of Akron, Ohio.

The plush $658,000 tournament is in its 57th day, and has 22 days to go.

Runner-up in the 20-team classic teams division is Cronk & Tocco All-Star, Oak Park, Mich., with 6,116.

Leading the winners was Jim Chestney of Denver, Colo., with 226-269-225-720 in his Friday night series. Teammates' series included John Glover 623, Mike McGrath 664, Mike Dubin 564 and Ralph Engan 620.

Chestney, contributing a 690 series, paired with Bob Poole of Denver for 1,295 and seventh place in the classic doubles standings.

Jose Cardenal and Russ Snyder connected for the Indians, who lost their eighth game in nine starts.

Black Players Miss Practice

16 Dismissed From Iowa Grid Team for Boycotting Drills

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Sixteen black players, including four defensive starters from last year, boycotted spring football practice at the University of Iowa Friday and Coach Ray Nagel said they had "dismissed themselves" from the squad.

There was no immediate word from the players on why they stayed away from the opening day of spring practice.

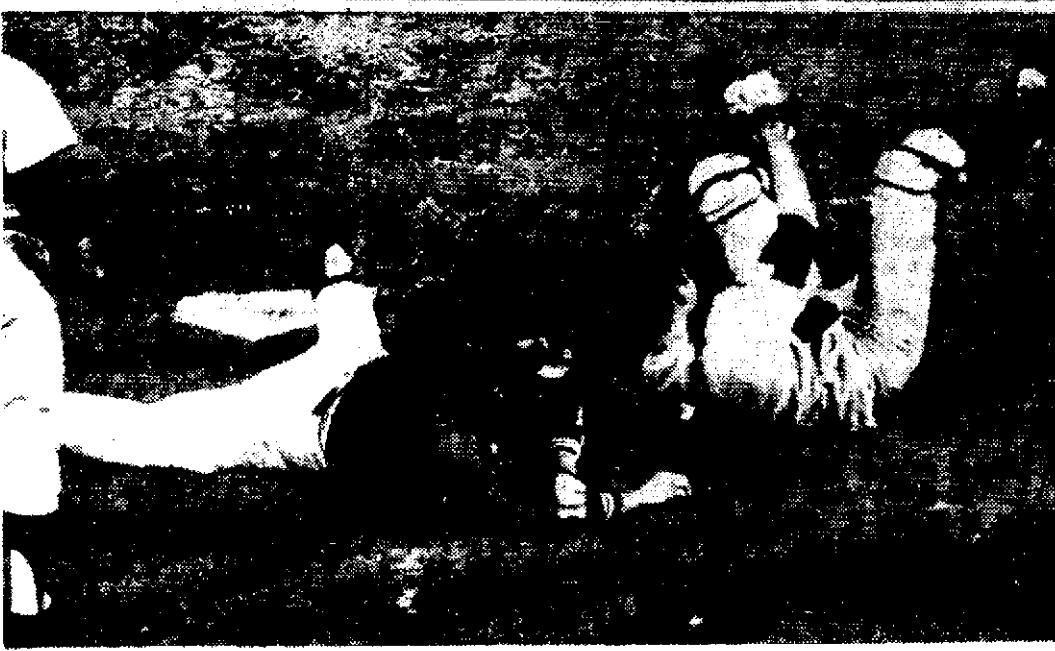

Nagel's only comment was that "the players who are absent today without permission have dismissed themselves from our football team."

Among the group were defensive backs Ray Cavole, Ray Churchill and Coleman Lane and linebacker Mike Phillips, all starters last year.

4 Lettermen
Others included four lettermen offensive guard Louis Age, tailback Dennis Green, fullback Tom Wallace and defensive end Ken Price and junior offensive end Herschel Epps. The rest were all sophomores.

Four black athletes did show up for practice, including split end Ray Manning, who led the team in pass receiving last year, and Mel Morris, senior offensive tackle. Also on hand were Bill Powell, No. 2 tailback last fall and split end Don Osby.

Asked whether the 16 players would lose their athletic scholarships, Nagel said: "They have been dismissed from our program and you can take it any way you want."

Dodgers Rally for Win Padres Topple Giants, 3 to 1, End Losing Streak at Six

An outfielder who he trotted out to center for the start of Friday night's game between the San Francisco Giants and San Diego Padres.

It started out as another memorable night for Willie Mays, San Francisco's greatest player, but Frank Reberger and San Diego's Reberger.

torini will never forget how it ended. Two hours and 40 minutes later, San Diego's Reberger Mays set a National League record of 2,422 appearances as preserved Santorini's first major league pitching triumph and nailed a 3-1 victory over the Giants by striking out Mays with the bases loaded.

The victory snapped a six-game losing streak for the NL expansion club, beaten four times by the Giants during its tailspin.

The bases also were bulging with two out in the ninth at Los Angeles, but Donley Womack failed where Reberger had succeeded. The Houston reliever walked Bill Russell and Wes Parker, forcing home the tying and winning runs in a 5-4 Dodgers victory.

The other games on the NL schedule—Pittsburgh at Philadelphia, New York at St. Louis and Atlanta at Cincinnati—were rained out.

Snow Greets Cubs Peters Hoping Arm Trouble to Disappear

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox were hoping for better weather Saturday and Friday but not on the field. Following their sweep in warm St. Louis, the Cubs arrived in Montreal Friday and were greeted by snow and 30-degree weather.

The game Friday night between the Sox and the Seattle Pilots was postponed because of adverse weather and Peters will get his third shot for his first victory this afternoon.

Peters lost the season opener at Oakland last week and then was given an 11-1 lead Sunday at Seattle but couldn't survive the fourth inning.

"For some reason or other I have had trouble loosening up," said Peters. "In Oakland as well as Seattle I developed arm stiffness that I never could work out."

Peters, however, is hopeful things will work out because he pitched batting practice last Tuesday and the arm loosened. Jim Mudgett (1-0), Grant's victory has been the only loss.

Peters (0-1) will face Marty Pattin (1-1).

The Chicago Cubs, baseball's hottest team, were cooled off Friday but not on the field. Following their sweep in warm St. Louis, the Cubs arrived in Montreal Friday and were greeted by snow and 30-degree weather.

Friday being an off day, the weather did not interfere with the schedule but Manager Leo Durocher called off a scheduled drill in Jerry Park.

The Cubs as a team wanted to test out the infamous infield while Ron Santo, who has been in a 1-for-21 slump, wanted to get some batting practice.

Also disappointed was Glenn Beckert who was injured in a collision with Mike Shannon in Wednesday's triumph over the Cardinals. Beckert suffered a slight concussion and wanted to test himself in a light workout.

Ken Holtzman (2-0) will draw Tuesday and the arm loosened. Jim Mudgett (1-0), Grant's victory has been the only loss.

Peters (0-1) will face Marty Pattin (1-1).

Stoneman Given Bonus Contract For No-Hit Game

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Expos tore up Bill Stoneman's contract Friday and gave him a new one with a $2,000 increase as a reward for his no-hit pitching performance against the Phillies Thursday night in Philadelphia.

It was the first time that Stoneman, who turned 25 April 7, had ever pitched a complete nine-inning game in his major league career.

The Expos also announced Friday that first baseman Bob Bailey has been placed on the 21-day disabled list.

A spokesman for the National League club said Bailey suffered a hairline fracture in his left ankle in the game against the Phillies.

Bailey's place on the Expos' roster will be taken by rookie Don Hahn. Hahn was supposed to report to Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League Friday to make room on Montreal's roster for Donn Clendenon, who joined the Expos in Philadelphia.

Post-Crescent Classified Ads Mean Business in the Fox Cities Area

I have been using The Post-Crescent Classified section for the past 10 years and am happy to state that it has been of tremendous value to our agency in promoting the sale of homes in the Fox Cities area.

Since we not only sell Real Estate but list and buy both residential and commercial property in the Fox Cities area I can personally state that the classified section of The Post-Crescent makes our message to the public in the best way we know.

I have found the personnel very cooperative and would recommend the use of The Post-Crescent as a media to convey your message to the public.

Trucks Blasted by Angry Residents

"How about keeping America beautiful and starting right here in Appleton?"

The challenge was hurled at the city council this week by Herbert G. Wettengel, 204 N. Bennett St.

He was one of several irate Bennett Street residents, along with Ald. Al Stoegebauer (1st), who made criticism at a public hearing on 1969 street improvement projects, including the proposed resurfacing of Bennett between Packard and Washington streets.

The target of their stinging criticism was truck traffic generated in the neighborhood by Schabo Materials, Inc., 912 W. College Ave., a ready mix firm.

Break Up Street

"These people are not against getting a new street and paying the assessment," Stoegebauer declared. "However, they are against having these big trucks breaking up the street."

He claimed Schabo trucks were not using truck routes and called upon police to enforce the ordinance.

"We have not been getting any cooperation from this firm," Stoegebauer said.

"Schabo's is the worst offender on College Avenue, making the area around it a dirty, dusty, unpleasant place to live," Wettengel charged.

He and others also criticized the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. and Wisconsin Telephone Co. for ripping up streets.

Wettengel said Appleton did a good job on beautifying most of College Avenue but never should have stopped at Richmond Street.

"Go one block past Richmond and you have nothing but an eyesore," Wettengel claimed. "Let's go all the way and beautify the Avenue."

Stoegebauer had the street project referred back to committee with the understanding it would look into the truck traffic problem.

In the meantime, Wettengel urged a drive to "make America beautiful."

Organizational Meeting Committee Named On Kimberly Board

KIMBERLY — Committee appointments were made this week by Village President Alvin Fulcoer at an organizational meeting of the new village board.

Named to the administrative committee were Paul Van Dyke, chairman, Elmer Vander Velden and Donald Valentyne.

On the maintenance committee were James Bergeron, chairman, John Gaffney and Eugene Schellhout. The personnel committee will include Valentyne, chairman, Vander Velden and Bergeron.

Van Dyke was named to serve as president in the absence of Fulcoer.

State Students Turned Away by Medical School

Space Shortage Cited by Official Of UW Facility

MADISON — Qualified Wisconsin applicants for admission to the University of Wisconsin medical school will be turned away for the first time in history next fall, Dean Peter Eichman said Thursday.

Students who would have met the entrance qualifications in any other year are being denied admission because of severe space limitations, Eichman told reporters following a presentation of a legislative budgeting committee on proposals for a new $120 million medical center.

Eichman's comments were sought by reporters, who had heard reports of the move by the faculty admissions committee, and were not made to the full committee.

"Our policy has been to give priority to qualified Wisconsin residents," said Eichman. "This is the first year in which we've filled the full 96 per cent quota of Wisconsin residents."

Other Qualified

"There remain in the pool qualified Wisconsin residents who in other years I think would have been qualified for admission."

The medical school is limited to 100 entering freshmen per year, 96 of whom by rule come from within the state.

Eichman said that it is difficult to tell as yet how many students are being barred from entrance despite their qualifications.

Some students notified that they have been admitted may choose not to enroll in that case students initially told that there is no room in the school for them may yet be admitted, he explained.

The announcement came after six years of state study on the needs of the medical school, which climaxed last year with the report of the Governor's Task Force on Medical Education.

Move School

That study, headed by Donald Schlacter of Milwaukee, recommended that the medical school be reconstructed on a new site on the west side of the Madison campus, its enrollment be expanded to 160 students per year within about a decade, and a similar enlargement be made in classes of the Marquette School of Medicine, Inc.

A test case is being prepared for the Wisconsin Supreme Court over a state plan to pay financial aids to the private teaching institution in the field in Wisconsin to keep the Marquette school from collapsing.

Cost $120 Million

The transfer of operations to the west side from the existing medical school and hospital site in the heart of the campus has been pegged at approximately $120 million.

The question currently confronts the legislative Joint Committee on Finance, which heard

COG Recommendation

Interim Zoning Law Passed by Sherwood

SHERWOOD — The interim zoning ordinance prepared by the Council of Governments (COG) was adopted by the village board here this week.

However, officials specified that clarification be made regarding the word "repairs" and set $1,000 minimum allowable without a building permit. Permits will cost $10 and certificates of occupancy, $20.

Florian Schmidt was named building inspector and the entire board will serve as the board of appeals. Copies of the ordinance, which is a temporary measure, will be published at four locations.

The board discussed dates and regulations regarding applications and issuing of intoxicating beverage licenses, cigarette permits and fees, and plans further investigation of the matter. The village clerk will accept applications, and they will be acted on at the recommendation of the licensing committee according to statutes.

Dumping privileges

Possibility of exchanging dumping privileges jointly with the Town of Harrison from neighboring Town of Woodville for fire protection was mentioned. The matter, it was reported, will be discussed by Woodville officials at their next meeting.

It was reported that in accord with the Jan. 14 resolution, village real estate and personal property was being reassessed by James R. Laird, Appleton appraisers, for $1,500.

In reply to a letter from the Calumet County Department of Social Services with the fact sheet asking opinion of residents regarding handling of relief, several board members said they felt relief cases were better handled locally than on a county basis. However, it was pointed out that a welfare department representative soon would be coming to explain the department to officials and that there was no charge to the community for having county authorities investigate cases.

The general feeling of the board was that the village currently has no relief cases and did not want to be involved paying for other communities.

Safety Precautions

Capt. Victor Juno, Calumet County police, will be at the May 13 board meeting to discuss issuance of parking tickets in the village and to make recommendations regarding the League of Municipalities' regional dinner meetings throughout the state, but no action was taken.

In response to a letter from the Department of Local Affairs and Development, technical assistance division, the board agreed to request pamphlets. Trustee Jacob Mueller as weed commissioner. Announcement also was made.

In other action, the board agreed to ask town officials for a joint meeting to discuss the division of assets in order that all funds due the village be divided as allowed by statutes. It also was agreed to have Margaret Court graded or graveled, whichever is best.

$6 Million Project

Construction to Begin On Shopping Center, Apartment Complex

Ground will be broken next week for the first phase of a $6 million shopping center and 422-unit apartment complex on Appleton's far northwest side.

The city council received the welcome news this week from attorney Thomas McKenzie, appearing on a rezoning request on behalf of the developers.

Recently, 150 acres of undeveloped land in the Town of Grand Chute was annexed to the city by the developers after close to five years of planning the multi-million dollar project.

Aldermen were unanimous in rezoning a 70-acre tract within the 150 acres for commercial and multifamily use.

The new development, which will add considerably to the city's tax base, will be bounded on the south by Northland Avenue, east by Richmond Street, west by Mason Street and north by Highland Memorial Park cemetery.

Ready to Begin
"They're ready to go now," McKenzie told the council, referring to the developers. Attending the meeting were

Court Denies Retrial Motion At Waupaca

Clintonville Man Serving Sentence After Guilty Plea

WAUPACA — William E. Pump, 21, Clintonville, was denied his motion for retrial Friday by Judge Wendell McHenry of the Waupaca County court.

On April 10, Pump, who is serving an 18-month sentence on his plea of guilty to endangering the safety of others and conduct regardless of human life, appeared before Judge McHenry with court-appointed attorney Edward Hart, Waupaca.

His motion for retrial was based on his petition which stated that he was unfairly treated at the time of his arrest, that he was told he did not need a lawyer, that he was not visited by counsel while in custody and that he was offered a deal by the district attorney that if he pleaded guilty to one charge, the three additional charges would be dismissed.

Handing down his decision today, Judge McHenry said he denied the motion because Pump had completely failed to establish any plea agreement or deal with the district attorney whereby he was to receive probation upon entering a plea of guilty. Further, that Pump freely, voluntarily and understandingly entered a plea of guilty to the charge on which he was sentenced.

Pump is serving his sentence in the Green Bay Reformatory for discharging a shot gun into a car occupied by Leslie Draeger and Renee Schmidt in the city of Marion last November.

attorney Thomas Tuttle, Milwaukee developer; representatives of Appleton Center, Inc., including an Indianapolis-headquartered firm that has put up 70 shopping centers in the country to date; officials of Robert Nanze and Associates, Milwaukee, second largest apartment developer in the state; and Edward Osborn, Milwaukee architect, who specializes in designing and planning apartment units.

It was disclosed the first portion of the construction will be the neighborhood shopping center with the Kroger Co. and W. T. Grant Co. two major clients.

In addition, there will be space for small stores to be constructed or leased by local businesses, the council was informed, along with restaurant facilities.

"Appleton is fortunate to have such competent people come in here to invest money and develop our community," McKenzie declared. "They are going to add millions to the tax base."

Housing Complex

He said the housing complex would consist of high quality, low density apartments which would be served by the neighborhood shopping center. An elaborate apartment layout was shown, complete with interior streets. Plans call for construction of 422 living units, about 13 per acre, it was announced.

Project sponsors have spent considerable time conferring with city officials on how the newly annexed area would be developed. The city intends to expedite installation of municipal utilities, along with providing other services.

No timetable was given for completion of the entire development, but the developers said they were eager to get started as soon as possible.

The council also was informed provision has been made for adequate parking space for the commercial and apartment areas — the facilities to exceed the requirements of the municipal code.

Ald. John Steidl (18th), in whose ward the development will take place, recalled the planning for the huge project started back in 1961 when Tuttle approached city officials.

"The developers have worked closely with City Planner Jack Hetu, who has done a fine job," Steidl said. "I believe these people are sincere and will carry out the entire project."

In other matters, the council: —Received a report that parking meter and ramp collections totaled $16,029 in March.

A state council will be formed at Madison, May 17.

Kitzman said the councils, which will include one for the Fox Cities area, will take part in community affairs, politics, social action "and whatever other community projects they might want to interest themselves in."

The councils would appear to be the counterpart of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE), which has statewide membership.

Attitudes Must Change

Chamber Speaker Issues Challenge To New Morality

BY RICHARD JACOBSON

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A South Carolina Baptist minister Thursday night declared the U.S. Civil War was "backyard touch football" compared to the division "we have in this country today."

Entitling his address, "Forward Together," after the campaign theme of President Nixon, Dr. Thomas Haggai, of High Point, N.C., inferred that the very existence of this country is endangered, "not only from the outside but also from within," if Americans don't change their attitudes toward one another.

Haggai, who is of Lebanese descent, intermixed the seriousness of his talk with light Arab-Israeli sundries as featured speaker at the 48th annual meeting of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce at the Conway Motor Inn.

National Speaker

Haggai, who travels over 30,000 miles a year speaking to various groups, graduated from North Greenville Junior College and Furman University with majors in political science and history.

In 1963, a group of 120 business and professional leaders from a broad spectrum of American commerce, formed Tom Haggai and Associates Foundation, a non-profit organization. The foundation provides scholarships for young men planning careers in Scouting, YMCA, boys clubs and city recreation.

Conflicts Sidelights

His sidelights on the 1967 Middle East conflict: "The Lebanese soldiers are distinguished; we surrendered faster than Italy in World War II; and, 'We secured our rifles from the U.S.,' thus they were dropped only once. However, Nasser got his rifles from the Italians, and they were dropped twice."

The speaker, however, was as effective in his humor as he was in driving across his message to the large audience on "our superficial concern" with the issues in this country.

"We have been too dependent upon our economic Messiahs in solving the American problem," he said.

"We think we can just buy our way out of the troubles that confront us, but that is wishful thinking. He also felt Americans are misguided in thinking 'once the Vietnam war is over that we're on our way to Utopia'."

Can't But Morale

"We must realize that the morale and moral constitution of this country can't be bought with the inflationary American day."

"We must realize that the morale and moral constitution of this country can't be bought with the inflationary American day."

"Why? Haggai noted 'we are so powerful... we helped them at their expense.'"

As an example he pointed out the U.S. provided food to Turkey during the country's famine but "that country's attitude was that Americans felt age problem. Pethan explained being sealed as suggested at a guilty, it was our responsibility that the water now drains into previous meeting, eliminating the state highway storm sewer, surface water from entering. He said a ditch was put in. He also stated the instructions had requested partial payment of been received for painting the $102 bill, which did not crosswalks on State 57 and the work would be done by village employees when weather permitted that the water was coming out.

"Where Do You Go?" "Today we're the product of our past World War II philosophy which is in effect to use people and love things rather than love people and use things," he declared.

"This is the attitude we have today. If you have a problem where do you go?" he asked his audience. After a pause, he answered "Who gives a damn?"

"And this attitude goes right back to the family and what I believe is a lack of the father image in our homes," Haggai said.

"The kids feel this today and they have something to say. 'Not the 2 per cent who are troublemakers but the vast majority,' he stated.

The minister explained that in his long and varied travels throughout the country, university students have told him that their parents didn't regulate them enough.

In discussing the "disadvantaged in America," Haggai said. "It has been said that poor people won't work, but don't you believe it."

What's needed is a solid recruiting program, he told the Chamber members and guests. "I'm from the old school, I think we should build our factories on low income properties, station these plants where the people are," he declared.

"We must reach these people and the Chamber plays an important role in this program. We must evangelistically recruit people and change our attitudes and thinking to the fact that these people can contribute," he said.

"Perhaps our high rate of crime can be traced back to the ratio of church attendance," he noted. "Let's not blame the breakdown of law and order on the Supreme Court, but rather on the breakdown of our own moral concern," the minister said.

"We need each other... a one by one relationship of all Americans to benefit our society."

"And I've gone back 1,900 years to find the answer to the American problem. Love one another," Haggai emphasized.

The board also learned that the department was reviewing the plans submitted by the village officials to install a calgon for several years.

By role call vote, board members agreed to pay $60 in the water. Approval of installation must be given by state officials.

Federal Grants Approved for COG Studies

Two-Thirds of Cost Of Plan Programs To Be Paid by HUD

Federal support toward several regional studies has been approved for the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG), it was learned this week.

The $54,992 Department of Housing and Urban Development grant represents two thirds of the cost of planning programs. The $27,497 local share was approved last fall.

Eugene E. Franchett, COG executive director, said the money will be used for a metropolitan transportation study, a regional housing study, a regional fire and rescue service study and continuation of other existing programs.

Planning Work

It also will be used to help pay for planning work, such as preparation of base maps, analysis of land use, population and economic conditions, preparations of a comprehensive development plan, and measures to implement this plan.

The planning grant is for a 12-month period for COG, which has 14 community members in three counties.

Bureaucracy Hurts Buyers, Nader Claims

Education Association Convention Told of Need for Buyer Protection

Post-Crescent News Service
TWO RIVERS — "One of the biggest structural problems in this country today is bureaucracy," nationally-famous Ralph Nader, a consumer rights campaigner, said Friday at the Northeastern Wisconsin Education Association Convention being held here and at Manitowoc.

"We can't individually affect the bureaucrats," Nader said. "We need public interest firms to involve business and government in the consumers' interest."

In 1965, Nader published a best-selling book "Unsafe at Any Speed," an account of the dangers designed into American automobiles.

Lethal Designs
"Our homes and cars are filled with lethal designs that have no reason for being there," said the Princeton University and Harvard Law School graduate.

Nader claimed through his study of automobile safety he found that $10 billion a year in property damage could be avoided if cars were equipped with bumper guards that were effective under 10 miles per hour.

He said that while the automobile is the main form of transportation, it was the last to come under government safety standards.

"Professionals are supposed to prevent what they are skilled to treat. But this has not been the case with the auto industry," he said.

Nader also spoke briefly about what he termed some of the nation's most serious problems, air and water pollution.

"You can abuse nature to a point where it will turn on the abuser," he said.

Political Issue
"I think this is the last time that we will see a presidential candidate who didn't have to take a definite stand on pollution, air and water pollution. It will be a prime issue in the 1972 election."

Nader singled out pollution in this area by saying, "The Great Lakes belong to all of us, but they are currently being polluted by just a few major corporations."

More than 8,000 teachers attended the one-day convention. It was the first time that a NEWEA convention had been held in two neighboring cities.

Also a speaker at the morning session was Donald Bourgeois, a member of the Illinois Department of Human Resources.

He was the creator of a unique program entitled "Black Partnership," which is designed to stimulate interracial communication while simultaneously advancing self-help projects.

The program is underway in several Illinois cities.

Appleton Man Heads NEWEA Teachers Back Uniform Formula for State Aids

Post-Crescent News Service
MANITOWOC — The Northeastern Wisconsin Education Association (NEWEA), meeting Friday here and Two Rivers, went on record as supporting a request that a statewide net operational tax levy of 15 mills be used as an index in determining the guaranteed valuation for the computation of state aids.

The NEWEA also recommended that all schools adopt professional salary schedules based either on index or percentage systems including increments sufficient to double the beginning teacher salary with 10 years and offer full credit for experience gained in other school systems.

The association joined with the Wisconsin Education Association in supporting legislation which would make it an unfair labor practice for the municipal employer or the exclusive negotiating representative of the professional staff to refuse to bargain collectively.

NEWEA members also passed a resolution supporting laws that would provide principals and other supervisory school personnel with rights and benefits similar to those afforded municipal employees.

Budget Approved
A budget totaling $16,090 was approved for NEWEA operation from June 1, 1969, to May 31, 1970. More than $12,000 of the budget will be raised through membership dues.

Keith Kohlman, an Appleton East High School teacher, officially took office as president, succeeding Howard Wilsman of Manitowoc.

Chosen president-elect for 1969-70 was Ralph Schwartz of Green Bay.

Elected vice-president was Ted Hartkopf of Appleton. Named to the executive committee were Richard Nelson, Ashwaubenon; Carl Turczynski, Manitowoc; Lauretta Schultz, Menasha; and Loretta Miller, Ripon.

About 7,000 educators attended the one-day convention which was held for the first time by two neighboring cities.

The NEWEA's four districts encompass 19 counties in the northeastern Wisconsin area. The association has about 8,000 members.

FHA Official Speaks to Realtors Low Income Housing Can Be Good Without Luxuries

Builders who think only in terms of homes with one and one-half baths and other middle class amenities are "not tuned to building for low income people," members of the Appleton Board of Realtors were told Thursday night.

Lawrence Katz, state director of the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) for Wisconsin, said housing for moderate and low income families can be good housing without containing the luxury extras associated with middle class living.

The federal official, speaking at the Left Guard, outlined the operation of the four FHA programs involving private housing. The FHA does not get involved in public housing.

The major programs involve guaranteed mortgages for eligible low income families and for privately constructed apartment units for rent to low income groups, and rent supplements.

The major new program (Section 235) involves the possibility of a low income home purchaser obtaining a one per cent mortgage interest rate. FHA will pay the lender the difference between the one per cent and the 7 1/2 per cent called for on the FHA-insured mortgage. Eligibility for this program is determined by the amount of the purchaser's earnings and size of family.

Katz said the program involves ing mortgages for single family dwellings has "worked well" in this area with a considerable number of homes having been built with FHA-guaranteed mortgages. No apartments have yet been built in the Fox Cities but there are several applications pending.

Counseling Plan
A new program has been started, he said, involving housing without containing the cause of questionable financial status, would not be eligible for FHA financing, but will be approved for mortgages under a counseling program.

Katz said the program requires a local non-profit organization to undertake management counseling with the individual for a period of up to two years.

Several realtors wanted to know if the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), the parent agency of FHA, would pay for needed repairs to a home under an FHA mortgage.

Katz reminded them the homes were privately not publicly owned. "We only underwrite the loan," he said, adding, "There is no problem if there is proper management."

Another realtor demanded to know how a family of six could "live in a box that is built substandard."

Not Substandard
Katz replied that FHA housing was not small and the homes were not substandard. "You are falling into the trap of those who are building homes for people who can afford the amenities," he said.

Katz told the realtors, "Blight does not come from building small and age does not automatically make blight."

He added, "Blight comes from people and care is the key."

Watered-Down Version

Anti-Smut Law Goes Into Effect

Appleton's new anti-smut ordinance officially becomes law today, banning the sale of how the ordinance was finally diluted by the city council's welfare-ordinance committee.

The ordinance is a watered down version of a New York weak anti-smut law takes effect today, when the Outagamie County Board has called for a crackdown on the traffic of obscene literature in Outagamie County.

Originally requested by Police Chief Earl O. Wolff several months ago, it excludes movies and applies only to obscene materials and their sellers.

Its biggest loophole enables anyone to distribute obscene for a $100 fine or 30 days in jail, materials as long as no financial payment is involved.

Ordinance Diluted
Wolff and other law enforcement officials, along with City

ed in the ordinance as: "Any picture, photograph, drawing, sculpture, or similar visual presentation or image of a person or portion of the human body which depicts nudity, sexual conduct or sado-masochistic abuse and which is harmful to minors."

The various acts and materials alluded to in the ordinance is to be considered harmful to minors when:

- Predominantly appealing to the prurient, shameful or morbid interest of minors.
- Potentially offensive to prevailing standards in the adult community as a whole.
- Utterly without redeeming social importance.

Rather than ban specific books or materials as being unlawful for sale — a form of censorship — the ordinance goes after the seller of obscene materials.

The ordinance goes into detail on the legal definition of nudity,

New Teacher Contracts To Hike Waupaca Taxes

School Costs Go Up 2 Mills; Annual Average Pay Increased By $1,215, as Negotiations End

WAUPACA — Terms on a teacher contracts were reached this week which will give an average annual pay increase of $1,215 and send school costs up two mills in the Waupaca Unified School District.

After 11 weeks of bargaining, agreement was reached, according to Laurie Anderson, member of the school board bargaining team, which will pay beginning teachers with a bachelor's degree $6,600 and with a master's $7,000.

Bargainers for the 88 teachers in the system who are members of the Wisconsin Education Association, (WEA) Carlyle Kotke and Brig Konecke, were authorized to accept the agreements as finalized Thursday.

The board of education authorized Anderson and Otto Risch Jr., also a member of the board's bargaining team, to negotiate a final contract with the following provisions:

Salary Steps
Teachers will receive a 4 per cent increment on the steps of the salary schedule. The bachelor's degree salaries are based on an 11-step progression, and rates of pay increase proportionately according to the number of credits acquired.

One step has been added to the master's scale, giving the new contract 12 steps.

Other benefits to the teachers within the new contract include an increase of from $20 to $30 per day for hospital room; full payment by the board for medical benefits to single teachers and payment of 60 per cent of the medical benefits of a teacher's family.

"There still remains a few items to be worked out, including the school calendar and precise language in the contract," Anderson said.

Formal approval of the new 1969-70 contract will be given at the board of education meeting May 6.

School Viewed
Some viewed the two mill tax increase to support the new teacher contract in the light of the 4.4 mill tax increase which would have supported the recently defeated referendum for a proposed $2.9 million high school for the district.

"Here we have a two mill increase about which the people had absolutely nothing to say," one district resident commented. "I wonder if we aren't selling the children short when it comes to a vote of the people in school construction."

Residents in the City of Waupaca, Towns of Dayton, Farmington, Lind, St. Lawrence, Scandinavia, Waupaca (in Waupaca County) and portions of the towns of Belmont and Lanark, Portage County and Town of Saxeville, Waushara County, defeated the school referendum by a vote of 2 to 1 and a school swimming pool by a vote of 3 to 1 in the April 1 election.

When teachers and board members opened negotiations the teachers were asking for a 25 per cent raise but the board held to 5 per cent on base pay increases.

Marion Lists Honor Students

MARION — Eleven students are listed on the high honor roll for the third nine weeks at the high school here.

A total of 24 other students from the four classes were given honors. To rate high honors a student must have a grade point average of at least 93.

Seniors on the high list are Wendy Arndt and Katie McInnis; juniors, Mike Mielke; sophomores, Beverly Buhr, Patricia Faehling, Debra Klitz and Margaret McInnis, and freshmen, Bonnie Ashenbrenner, Monica Bohr, Mary McGraw, Grace Ann Sturms and Marie Asenbrenner.

Crotteau Will Be Returned

Ex-Neenah Man To Face Armed Robbery Charge

RAPID CITY, S. D. — Edward P. Crotteau, 62, who is named in a federal warrant charging him with the April 8 armed robbery of Greenville bank, is expected to be returned to Wisconsin to face the charge.

Crotteau, a long-time Neenah resident, waived a "removal hearing" during an appearance here Friday before U.S. Court Commissioner Ernest Gunderson.

Officials here said that a federal judge at Sioux Falls, S. D., is expected to issue a written "removal warrant" for Crotteau within a week. When that is done, Crotteau is expected to be brought to Wisconsin, where he probably will face further proceedings in Federal Court at Milwaukee.

Meantime, Crotteau, whose last address was 408 W. Seventh St., Appleton, remains in the Pennington County jail here under $75,000 bond.

He was taken into custody by FBI agents at a motel here April 13 for the holdup of the Greenville Branch of the First National Bank of Appleton. Authorities said about $15,500 was taken in the morning robbery.

A Nest-Building Robin that got itself tangled in a tree branch with some string it was using for construction materials created considerable excitement and some heroic rescue efforts in the vicinity of Hoover and S. Jackson Streets Wednesday. First some neighborhood youngsters made an unsuccessful attempt to reach the bird. Then Mrs. Mila Lang, 2609 S. Jackson St., climbed as high as she could and with the aid of a knife attached to a pole attempted to cut the string and free Mr. Robin. Frank Schiltz, 1022 E. North St., drove by in his car and sized up the situation. He helped Mrs. Lang from the tree and shinned up the trunk himself and rescued the bird. In the final picture Mrs. Lang and Schiltz hold the released robin before setting it free. (Post-Crescent Photos by Robert Baeten)

Fund Cuts Could Hurt UW-Green Bay

While the legislative Joint Finance Committee in recent sessions has taken on the appearance of wild swingers of a meat ax against the governor's proposed budget, some speculation is that the committee is aiming at reducing the $400 million revenue gap to a level at which both an income tax increase and an expansion of the sales tax would not be needed.

This is a defensible goal and one which is understandable from the strictly political point of view. But if the committee proposes to recommend measures which will pass on costs to local government, which will only defer required expenditures to another time, or which will pull back from service and education commitments the state already has made, nothing will be accomplished over the long pull other than providing material for a few press releases about economy in government.

In the past few days, we have made this point about the proposed cuts in appropriations for the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education and for the new Department of Local Affairs and Development. If the cuts stand, the state will be retreating in building a strong agency to supervise its higher educational systems and will be turning its back on its responsibilities in urban problems.

Now, the committee has taken a $40 million whack at the University of Wisconsin budget — not unexpected in view of the public image problems the university has had of late. The university administration has requested another hearing and it deserves a careful consideration of the impact of the budget cuts.

For this area of the state, most of the concern over the fate of the university budget will center on funds for the new University of Wisconsin-Green Bay. But this is no mere expression of political provincialism.

The new university branch was authorized by the legislature because of the facts of coming student enrollments and as part of a plan both to slow down enrollment increases at other campuses and to provide state-supported higher education in a region of the state which did not have it.

Some of the finance committee's proposed cuts fly in the face of this planning and almost seem to say that the committee wishes the facts would go away and hide. UW-GB, for example, would be left without money to operate its library, it would be denied an administrative staff provided for on any other campus, and it would not be able to offer student counseling which is an accepted function on all other state campuses.

For its part, the UW Board of Regents has endorsed an increase in student fees, including raising the tuition level at the Green Bay campus to that of the Madison and Milwaukee campuses. We have reservations about that in view of the plan to encourage growth at the start and in view of lower fees paid at two-year campuses, but the pressure for funds weakens this criticism.

The UW budget must receive another hearing. If it accepts its responsibilities, the Joint Finance Committee should conclude that some costs — like those to establish the UW-GB — must be accepted no matter how painful the resulting requirement for additional taxation.

Ethics and Heart Transplants

The successful use of a completely artificial heart to keep alive a Texas man until a heart could be found is a considerable breakthrough in medicine. But it also has raised once more the questions of experiments as differentiated from therapeutic treatment.

Dr. Denton Cooley and his surgical team in Houston were attempting to repair the disease ruined heart of Haskell Karp. They found that they could not so they implanted the artificial device while they sought a donor. Mr. Karp stayed alive with the artificial heart for 65 hours and after the transplant of a human heart appeared to be in no worse condition than he was before. He later died from pneumonia and kidney failure. As Dr. Cooley has pointed out to critics, he had the choice of trying to keep Mr. Karp on the heart lung machine which cannot be used long because of blood damage or implant the artificial device and he had the written permission of Mr. Karp.

But in part because of the considerable publicity surrounding heart transplants, surgeons have become concerned about standards and measures used. In any cases where federal research has been used in the development of artificial devices, federal guidelines must be followed and they include the submission of any experimental plan to a review committee in advance. This was not important in Dr. Cooley's action as the device had been developed without the use of federal funds.

But other surgeons have been critical of what might be a too hasty resort to a technique that certainly is still in the experimental stage. Of the first 80 heart transplant patients, 33 died within a month. Last year the Board of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences in Washington said "This procedure cannot as yet be regarded as an accepted form of therapy, even an heroic one. It must be viewed for what it is, a scientific exploration of the unknown, only the very first step of which is the actual surgical feat of transplanting the organ."

Even surgeons who are enthusiastic about the transplants concede that the recipient's body will eventually reject the new organ. A member of the Board on Medicine, Dr. Irvine Page, told the American Medical Association's National Congress on Medical Ethics that "there appeared to be an international race to be a member of the me-too brigade. There has never been anything like it in medical annals. The public is wholly unaware that this is still highly experimental surgery and not an accepted treatment."

To the patient who is doomed because of a failing heart or other essential organ and members of his family, all of this may seem immaterial. The chance for a longer life is the prime consideration. But members of the medical profession are right in their concern. Experiments on human beings would be all too easy to exploit with the experiment rather than the individual as the primary interest.

NLRB Charged With Failure to Bargain

There is something a bit more than irony in the news that employees of the National Labor Relations Board have filed a formal complaint with the Civil Service Commission. The complaint: Failure of the NLRB to bargain with employees over job changes.

The NLRB employees association said that temporary job changes among staff attorneys were made unilaterally by the management of the agency. All this, noted the complaint, took place in "an agency which has been publicly criticized for requiring employers in the private sector to bargain with representatives of their employees."

The response of management in this instance? "You don't talk indefinitely when you have a job to do," said Clarence Wright, director of administration for NLRB.

In the opinion of many, this posture in bargaining with employees will stand in contrast to what the NLRB and its examiners have said is the law in recent years. In fact, the NLRB has handed down so many puzzling rulings of late that they have been collected in booklet form.

Among the more interesting findings: An employer must recognize a union bargaining unit consisting of one person; an employer must rehire workers who were released because there was no work for them to do at the moment, and an employer had to rehire a worker who slandered the company on the radio and who did not apologize in a time given her because she was repeating in good faith a rumor she had heard on her broadcast.

Perhaps the NLRB's experience now as an employer charged with failing to bargain over decisions of management will rub off on some of its future decisions.

Thomas O'Keefe Bright Inventor

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for April 24, 1869.

Thomas O'Keefe Esq. of this City, has just procured a patent for a new and useful improvement in metallic fastenings for securing the side rails of a bedstead to the ends, for simplicity, durability and economy will supersede all others in use.

He already has been offered a large sum for his patent, which he refused, and from our investigations of the improvement, we are glad to believe and state that his inventive faculties now ensure him a large fortune at an early day, because no furniture factory or family will do without these fastenings.

The invention will revolutionize all bedstead fastenings, the expense being a trifling as compared with all the fastenings now in use.

The improvements consist in metal plates for screwing onto the face of the posts or side rails, having two or more hooks projecting at right angles from the face at one edge, to be used in pairs, one on the post with the hooks facing upward, and the other in the side rail facing downward, and so arranged that the hooks of the plate on the rail will engage with and be supported by those on the post.

NIAGARA FALLS

American Falls are to be shut off at Niagara in effort to combat erosion. Temporary dam to be removed by end of December.

Niagara's American Falls Will Be Closed for Repairs, Study

NIAGARA FALLS (AP) — The American side of the mighty Niagara Falls, ordinarily roaring with the sounds of a 1,000-foot-wide wall of water, will be quiet for up to six months this year.

The falls are expected to be shut off in June or July so that experts can determine what, if any, repairs to the rock understructure are needed.

According to the Army Corps of Engineers, it will be the first time man has stopped the American Falls. Horseshoe Falls, which is mainly on the Canadian side, will not be affected.

A temporary dam will be built from the American mainland to Goat Island in the Niagara River, to divert the water.

Will Study Rock Stress

The rock underneath the falls was subject to cracks and slides in 1939 and in 1954, dumping some 300,000 tons of rock down the American Falls. Engineers will now drill test holes, take out undamaged samples of rock and study them for quality and stresses in an effort to combat the erosion.

Erosion at the Horseshoe Falls is now negligible as the result of remedial work accomplished by the United States and Canada in the 1950s.

The flow of water down the Niagara River averages between 185,000 and 205,000 cubic feet a second, depending on the time of the year and water levels of the lakes.

The power agencies are not permitted to take any water from the river. They must leave certain amounts to flow over the falls. During daylight hours in the tourist season (April 1 through Oct. 31) 100,000 cubic feet per second must be permitted to flow over the falls. At night (during the summer after 11 p.m. EDT) and during the day the rest of the year, the flow can be reduced to 50,000 cfs.

Gates Regulate Flow

Some of the water is taken out by cities for domestic use, but the rest of the water is split between the United States and Canada for power purposes. The water is diverted at intakes above the falls and sent through tunnels and conduits to power plants downstream. There the water is returned to the river.

A control structure (the bridge-like structure pointing out from the Canadian side) contains gates that regulate the level of the pool behind it, thus regulating flow over the falls and diversion.

Something more than 90 per cent of the total flow over the falls passes over the Horseshoe Falls. Thus, when the total flow over the falls is at 100,000 cfs, about 91,000 cfs of that is over the Horseshoe Falls and about 9,000 cfs over the American Falls.

Accepted heights for the two falls during the summer months are 176 feet for Horseshoe and 182 feet for American. This is from brink to river level. The rock pile (talus) at the base of the American Falls cuts the drop in some spots as much as half. During periods of lower flow (50,000 cfs) the height of the falls increases about 10 feet because of lowering of the river level in the area right below the Cataracts (which is called the Maid of the Mist pool).

Tax Reform Is Simple, but Congress Is Foolish

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I recall a sign, as I passed a restaurant in Springfield, Ill. last fall. It said, "Don't go by angry! Stop here and get fed up". I think this applies, more every day, to the tax mess in the state of Wisconsin and also to the worse mess in Washington.

The action taken in our neighboring election in Appleton should not come as a surprise. The closeness of the Neenah school referendum vote is also another indicator of the mood of the taxpayers.

I think our big spenders should take heed: we'll not stand much more, unless changes are forthcoming in our state and federal tax structures. The inequities must be corrected. There is only one way to do it sensibly and that is to start from scratch.

Start over entirely. Rid ourselves of all the loop holes, credits etc. Wipe the slate clean, then set up a simple set of rates we all must pay. Set the exemptions at $1200 for all. There would be no penalty exacted on the man who has the ability to make $1,000,000 or more. As an example, say the rate for everyone is 15 per cent. He would pay $150,000 less his exemptions. The same applies to the $5,000 a year man. His tax would be $750 less his exemptions.

You will note, there are no provisions for special exemptions. The same applies to corporations. They would be allowed reasonable depreciation allowances for equipment replacement and plant restoration. Oil depletion allowance reduced to a more realistic amount and only for actual cost of exploration and drilling, not a never ending 27 1/2 per cent.

We need a complete elimination of all types of tax shelters. Cut out the fakery of higher rates on the high salaries. This is a bald-faced lie if there ever was one.

I know there are a few people who do pay their fair share of these high rates, but who can blame a man for taking advantage of the stu-

Democrats Watch For Political Gains In Budget Discussions

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — As they contemplate the travail of the Republicans in control of the state government and the prospect of a painful clash between the Republican legislative and executive leadership, the Democratic minority in that government may figure that it is sitting in the cat bird seat, in the legendary phrase of a popular American sports commentator.

Wyngaard

However the dispute is resolved, the Democrats have reason to believe that they will gain and that the gains will be registered in the 1970 elections — the first in which statewide officers will be elected for four-year terms and thus of crucial importance to both parties.

It now seems unlikely that any substantial tax program to support a new budget — even if it is increased to a lesser degree than Gov. Knowles has asked — can be enacted without the help of some Democrats. But, Gov. Knowles has declared publicly and repeatedly that he won't sign any appropriation bill that is not fully funded.

REPERCUSSIONS LIKELY

If that means that the new fiscal year will begin at the spending authorizations of the present year — without pay raises, and without allowances for other inflationary costs, not to mention growth of school enrollments, patient loads and other factors — there will be noisy repercussions statewide.

And the Democrats will be able to sit back in the security of their minority status, explaining that it is the Republican party that was elected to rule the state, which has the power to make decisions, and thus should be held accountable for them.

Democrats will be able to have their cake and eat it too, as the saying goes.

Indeed, they are more likely to give the Republicans some votes in increasing the budget toward the levels desired by Knowles, than they are to help them by enacting a tax program.

DISPUTES ON SPENDING

On appropriations, the Democrats are in a different position than on taxes. Philosophically, Democrats are more prone to support a high level of governmental services than are Republicans. Some of the disputes about spending relate to areas that Democrats regard as the most sensitive. These are in the field of public assistance, in programs for the disadvantaged in the Milwaukee inner core, in property tax relief, and notably, in education.

Some of the most sophisticated Democrats, in fact, appear convinced that the "academic community," as they call it — including the whole vast bureaucracy of education, not only the men and women at the lecture platform and especially the rapidly increasing number of graduate students of voting age — is now their most important ally.

Education ranks in their calculations with organized labor. Some of them believe it is more important, because labor can be relied upon some what may, while the "academic" vote tends to shift with men and issues.

DEMOCRATS ARE PREPARED

There will be some liberal-minded critics who will assert, the Democratic minority knows, that a responsible legislator should be prepared to vote the revenues for the appropriations he has supported.

But the Democrats have already shown they are prepared for such demands. Their leadership has foresightedly described what they want — more taxation of business, and more steeply graduated personal income tax. They can be fairly certain that the Republicans will flinch at such conditions, remembering their business-oriented, middle class power base and its disenchantment with the present tax burden.

Here lies the strong probability of a stalemate which has led to those doleful predictions of a weary legislature sitting as late as December.

If there is some uncertainty among the rank and file about such strategy, there will be those veterans on hand to remind them how the Republican bent Democratic governors to their will only a few years ago. Among them was one term former Gov. W. Reynolds, who was forced to capitulate to a higher sales tax program after he had campaigned the length and breadth of the state denouncing the very idea.

can make a start". Let's leave off the excuses. The time is now!

Resurrection In Spring No Mythology

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I'm writing concerning a letter to the editor in Saturday's paper from a Mr. Nordlander. Some of his statements sounded plausible but I would take exception to certain of his statements, especially to his allusion to the fact that the story of the Resurrection was a part of former culture mythology.

It is difficult for me, especially at this time of the year, to equate resurrection (new life) with just a fairy tale. It is in evidence all around. Dead sticks and branches all winter now bursting forth into budding greenery and soon glorious colored blossoms. Tiny seeds planted in black soil and in three days showing new life. The resurrection is with us every Easter as is the resurrection of the plants in spring. It is difficult for me to even entertain the possibility that plant life is greater than animal life. If it happens every spring for the plants, why is it so difficult to believe that it can't happen to the highest form of life — man.

Larsen Man Pays 1st Fine Under Sanitary Code

OSHKOSH — A septic tank service operator has paid the first fine for violations under the county's sanitary code.

Joseph Wimberger, route 1, Larsen, pleaded guilty to violating five provisions of the code and was fined $150 by County Judge James V. Sitter Friday.

In a complaint signed by John Kennedy, county sanitary inspector, Wimberger was dumping sewage without approval of the township; was using an insufficient area of land for the amount of sewage; was dumping too close to the roadway; was not properly licensed, and was dumping on soil that was unsuitable for absorption of the waste.

The offenses cited took place Feb. 25 along County Trunk G in the Town of Neenah. The sewage formed a pool on the surface of the field.

Navigation Season On Fox, Wolf Rivers Will Open Wednesday

OSHKOSH — The navigation season on the Fox and Wolf rivers between New London and the Menasha lock will open at 8 a.m. Wednesday, according to the District Army C Corps of Engineers at Chicago.

Navigation on the Fox River between the Menasha lock and De Pere will open at 8 a.m. May 1.

Bridge openings for the summer season will start to coincide with the opening of navigation. The opening of the Omro bridge will conform with the opening of the upper Fox River.

Menasha Youngster Hurt in Accident

MENASHA — Four-year-old Jerrold J. Lotzer, 644 London St., was admitted to Theda Clark Hospital Friday for treatment of a fractured right leg after he ran into the side of a passing truck.

Menasha police said Anthony A. Griesbach, 56, 829 Seventh St., was driving his truck past the boy's home when he heard a thump. He looked back, saw some boys, and after checking, discovered the Lotzer boy had run into the side of the truck. The mishap occurred at 12 p.m.

Blacks Denounce OSU Expulsions

OSHKOSH — The expulsion of 90 black students from Oshkosh State University for their parts in last fall's disturbance was vigorously denounced by three prominent black spokesmen Friday.

One of the speakers, black nationalist Roy Innis, predicted the university officials' action, which he describes as "vicious, racist, illegal and unjust," would have future repercussions.

Innis, national director of the militant Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), said the university's "repressive behavior" was "sowing seeds and reaping the harvest later."

The other two speakers who shared the podium of OSU during the first day of the two-day seminar on "black view of white America" also chided the university administration for its handling of the black students.

Mrs. Medgar Evers, widow of the famed civil rights leader, said university teachers and administrators "need to be educated in the human process."

"Morally Sway" Julian Bond, the 29-year-old Georgia State representative who catapulted into national prominence at last year's Democratic convention added that John Renz, 136 Plummer Ave., attempts should be made to Neenah, according to County "morally sway" the regents to re-instate the black students at OSU.

Innis, a strong advocate of separatism and the most vocal of the three, said he decided to accept the speaking engagement in-black students at the universities today weren't the same "vintage" as those of earlier years. "We were told to be thankful but today's youth say, 'why be thankful, it is rightfully ours and long overdue.'"

"Token Basis" She said many schools opened their doors to blacks "on a token basis" and now "expect pattern." She added that both white and black schools are not adequately preparing blacks for the future.

Bond defended the students' right to protect unjust actions, such as the expulsion of the blacks.

Theda Clark Starts Move Into New Surgery Center

NEENAH — Gerald L. Aldridge, administrator, Theda Clark Hospital, said the move to the hospital's new intensive care unit was completed Thursday and the transfer to the new surgical center was started Friday.

The building program, including remodeling and redecorating of the 1964 addition of the hospital plus the complete move to the new $5.2 million addition, should be completed by late summer, Aldridge said.

When the project is completed the hospital will have expanded its patient bed availability from 340 to 530 beds, he pointed out.

The new surgical center will have the facilities for open heart surgery and organ transplants. Aldridge said, it is designed to hold 20 doctors and assistants.

The present surgical unit will be expanded to provide a covered ambulance entrance, an outpatient department and orthopedic treatment rooms.

As the patients are moved from the older rooms of the hospital to the new addition, the rooms are being cleaned and redecorated, he said.

They also will tour the Kimberly Mill of Kimberly-Clark Corporation.

Oshkosh Indicates It Would Endorse Landfill Program

OSHKOSH — Oshkosh city officials indicate they would be willing to endorse a county landfill program for solid waste disposal and cooperate in any such program.

Supv. Herman Brandt, Town of Omro, raised the issue several months ago before the county board and again last week, asking that something concrete be done.

He also complained that Oshkosh was dumping ash residue in a quarry in the town without the town's permission. The City of Omro also uses the quarry for dumping all of its garbage.

A three-man committee, consisting of county zoning officer Carl Mailahn, Supv. Carl Steffen, Menasha, and Supv. Laurel Heaney, Neenah, was appointed to investigate the landfill proposal when it was first requested by Brandt.

Mailahn said the committee is waiting to meet with state officials on requirements for sanitary landfill. He said state regulations for landfill, adopted March 11, are now being studied for revision.

15 Tons Daily Oshkosh City Mgr. Angus Crawford said the city now hauls about 15 tons of residue daily from its incinerator and he felt this could be used for landfill cover.

The city burns about 100 tons of garbage and refuse daily in its incinerator which has a capacity of about 350 tons. He said the city is rapidly running out of space for landfill in city-owned property.

Saturday, April 19, 1963 The Post-Crescent A 8

He added he felt an equitable agreement could be reached on cost sharing, either on a per ton basis or based on valuation.

Both the City of Omro and the Village of Winneconne also have had difficulty in finding usable landfill areas and have studied the possibility of jointly constructing an incinerator. Those plans now apparently have been shelved at least temporarily because of the cost.

No Decisions Reached Both communities also have discussed the possibility of utilizing the Oshkosh incinerator but no decisions have been reached.

Mailahn suggested a possible solution may be to locate a number of abandoned quarries and gravel pits around the county for several townships to join together in dumping operations.

Both quarries and gravel pits will be approved by the state for land-fill use as long as they are dry and there is no danger of wells or waterways being polluted by the refuse.

Covered Daily However, one of the major items involved is the operation of the land fill sites themselves. Under the existing state rules, the garbage and refuse must be covered daily to prevent it from becoming a breeding place for rodents.

Revisions may be made to this code to permit less frequent covering, based on the population being served by the dumping area. Another problem would be obtaining sufficient material for covering the garbage.

This is where Crawford feels the city could be of help. The incinerator residue is run through a wash to cool it before it is hauled away, Crawford said, and this could be used for the covering material.

Since it is wet, he said, it would not blow around and since it already has been burned, it would not provide any food for rodents.

'Polished Performance' Students Star in 'Damn Yankees'

BY DINAH WALTER

Post-Crescent Staff Writer MENASHA — Beginning with a strong overture of musical numbers, Menasha High School students presented with polish the popular musical comedy, "Damn Yankees," Friday night.

Directed by Dalton Schoening, William Laesch and Austin Boncher, the takeoff on Douglass Wallop's book, "The Year the Yankees Lost the Pennant," will be staged again at 8 p.m. today in the school auditorium.

The musical tells the story of a real estate man, Joe Boyd, played by Kerry Hartley, who in a quick motion vows he would sell his soul if his favorite team, the Washington Senators could win the pennant.

Rick Lewandowski adequately took the role of the Devil Mr. Applegate and appeared to give old Joe a chance to become the young and excellent baseball player, Joe Hardy.

During the number, "Good-bye, Old Girl," which Joe Boyd sings to his wife, Meg, played by Linda Bohrer, the Devil does his clear and very strong voice, formed into Joe Hardy.

Clear, Strong Voice Tom Walter, portraying the baseball star, livened up the musical when he appeared with his clear and very strong voice.

Another talented young lady, Ann Oliver, staging the role of the boisterous and noisy newspaper reporter, Gloria Thorpe, gave a good backing to the fast clipping song, "Shoeless Joe From Hannibal, Mo."

One of the most outstanding performers, however, was Linda Gear, who adequately played the seductive Lola. Swaying and dancing across the stage, Linda showed her talent in such numbers as "A Little Brains, A Little Talent," and "Who's Got The Pain."

Lola, an "employee" of the Devil, was supposed to turn young Joe's attentions away from his wife, Meg. When Lola failed during a very well done number, "What Ever Lola Wants," to gain Joe's heart, she began to side with the player-kees, and turned out to be an avid team by catching a long throw.

Escape Clause Before old Joe agreed to become the younger hero, he made the Devil agree to an escape clause. Throughout the season with the Washington Senators, Joe missed his wife more and more, and finally decided to use the escape clause, after he was accused of being the shady character, "Shifts McCoy."

Appearing before a board of commissioners, Joe was clear-house with "The Game."

Optimism High COG Cities Will Get Anti-Crime Funds

While many cities in the speedup in funding and modification of planning requirements, Ellwood, who made a cursory study to meet the preliminary priority list deadline, said in a 20-page report that manpower is the Fox Cities communities' top need. Training and education and records analysis also are high on the list, he added.

Ellwood has begun a detailed study to develop long-range planning on law enforcement needs which will be used to apply for the anticipated $3.5 million in federal funds to be allocated to Wisconsin in fiscal 1970.

Nelson Urges 7 Governors To Fight DDT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., sent telegrams Thursday to the governors of seven states bordering the Great Lakes urging them to ban use of DDT to prevent further pollution of the lakes.

Nelson, who has been advocating a nationwide ban on DDT since 1966, cited action taken recently by the Michigan Commission of Agriculture which will lead to the eventual banning of the pesticide in that state.

The senator asked the governors to consider similar action in their states "so that we can halt the further pollution by DDT of the Great Lakes."

He also asked Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin to take similar steps on a nationwide level.

"Rapidly mounting scientific evidence indicates that DDT is doing grave damage to living creatures all over the world," Nelson said. He cited the recent seizure by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration of 28,000 pounds of frozen coho salmon from Lake Michigan because high pesticide residues in the fish had, in the FDA's opinion, made them unfit for human consumption.

The telegrams went to the governors of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Appleton Man Heads NEWEA Teachers Back Uniform Formula for State Aids

Post-Crescent News Service

MANITOWOC — The Northeastern Wisconsin Education Association (NEWEA), meeting Friday here and Two Rivers, went on record as supporting a request that a statewide net operational tax levy of 15 mills be used as an index in determining the guaranteed valuation for the computation of state aids.

The NEWEA also recommended that all schools adopt professional salary schedules based either on index or percentage systems including increments sufficient to double the beginning teacher salary with 10 years and offer full credit for experience gained in other school systems.

The association joined with the Wisconsin Education Association in supporting legislation which would make it an unfair labor practice for the municipal employer or the exclusive negotiating representative of the professional staff to refuse to bargain collectively.

NEWEA members also passed a resolution supporting laws that would provide principals and other supervisory school personnel with rights and benefits similar to those afforded municipal employees.

Budget Approved
A budget totaling $16,090 was approved for NEWEA operation from June 1, 1969, to May 31, 1970. More than $12,000 of the budget will be raised through membership dues.

Keith Kohlman, an Appleton East High School teacher, officially took office as president succeeding Howard Wilsman of Manitowoc.

Chosen president-elect for 1969-70 was Ralph Schwartz of Green Bay.

Elected vice-president was Ted Hartkopf of Appleton. Named to the executive committee were Richard Nelson, Ashwaubenon; Carl Turczynski, Manitowoc; Lauretta Schultz, Menasha; and Loretta Miller, Ripon.

About 7,000 educators attended the one-day convention which was held for the first time by two neighboring cities.

The NEWEA's four districts encompass 19 counties in the northeastern Wisconsin area. The association has about 8,000 members.

Crotteau Will Be Returned

Ex-Neenah Man To Face Armed Robbery Charge

RAPID CITY, S. D. — Edward P. Crotteau, 62, who is named in a federal warrant charging him with the April 8 armed robbery of Greenville bank, is expected to be returned to Wisconsin to face the charge.

Crotteau, a long-time Neenah resident, waived a "removal hearing" during an appearance here Friday before U.S. Court Commissioner Ernest Gunderson.

Officials here said that a federal judge at Sioux Falls, S. D., is expected to issue a written "removal warrant" for Crotteau within a week. When that is done, Crotteau is expected to be brought to Wisconsin, where he probably will face further proceedings in Federal Court at Milwaukee.

Meantime, Crotteau, whose last address was 408 W. Seventh St., Appleton, remains in the Pennington County jail here under $75,000 bond.

'No Ambitions in Politics Now,' Bond Tells Audience

Georgia Legislator, Roy Innis Attack Nixon Administration For Handling of Racial Issues

OSHKOSH — Julian Bond, the youthful Black legislator from Georgia who was the Wisconsin delegation's choice for vice president at the Democratic convention last summer, proved he could still pick up a few votes in the state Friday even though he said he had no political ambitions "at the present time."

Bond received a standing ovation and waving banners proclaiming, "Wisconsin still wants Bond," and "Kennedy-Bond in '72," as he started to speak at Oshkosh State University as part of the two-day seminar on a "Black View of White America."

Both Bond and another featured speaker, Roy Innis, national director of the Congress for Racial Equality (CORE), attacked the Nixon administration for its handling of racial issues.

No Forthrightness
Bond said the Nixon administration "hasn't shown any forthrightness," and claimed millions of dollars worth of government contracts had gone to southern companies with "proven records of discrimination."

Innis said the forced resignation of Clifford Alexander Jr. as head of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission "showed that the administration is off to a fast, bad start."

He called Sen. Everett Dirksen's "forcing" Nixon to "free" Alexander "totally dishonorable."

Bond, an outspoken critic of the Vietnam war, added that Nixon "has yet to unveil his plan to end the war — a plan he said he had more than one year ago."

Light Vein
The soft-spoken and light-skinned Bond, who helped found the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee in 1960, switched to a lighter vein in response to questions if there were any other Kennedy-Bond campaign posters sprouting up around the country by remarking jokingly, "In my basement at home there are millions of them."

But then he added, "Be serious." He pointed out the minimum age for president and vice president is 35 and in 1972, he would only be 32 years old.

"But I'm going to Washington tomorrow and will see how Sen.

Kennedy feels about Bond-Kennedy in '76," he remarked.

Bond was nominated for vice president by the Wisconsin delegation at the Democratic convention last summer even though, at 29, he would be too young to serve.

He was scheduled to appear in a panel discussion with the other three Black speakers this morning at OSU.

Woman Given Year in Prison

Appleton Resident Sentenced for Writing Bad Checks

A 31-year-old Appleton woman who has about $275 in worthless checks outstanding, was sentenced to one year in the Wisconsin Home for Women at Taycheedah.

Patsy Ann Clubb, 219 N. Durkee St., had pleaded guilty last month of issuing a worthless $20 check at the Sears and Roebuck Store in Appleton on Feb. 21. At that time, the court was informed there were 10 other checks in question, totaling $206, for which she was not being formally charged.

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer ordered a pre-sentence investigation and continued the case to Friday.

R. Thomas Cane, assistant district attorney, told the court Friday that his office received six more worthless checks, issued by Mrs. Clubb, since her last court appearance. He recommended the woman be sentenced rather than be granted probation.

Schaefer, making reference to the pre-sentence report by the State Department of Health and Social Services, noted that Mrs. Clubb had a poor record. He said she has spent time in a federal prison in West Virginia and is presently on parole. Most of her prior convictions, he said, involved check offenses.

15-Year-Old Babysitter Attacked

Police are continuing the search for a would-be burglar who early today attacked a 15-year-old babysitter while she was asleep in a west-side home.

Police were called to the William Schultz home, 616 S. Locust St., about 3:10 a.m. after receiving a call from the babysitter. The Schultzes were at work, police said.

The girl, who police said was very frightened, said she had bloody nose. Police administered first aid at the scene, then took the girl home after the Schultzes were contacted.

Entry into the home was gained through an unlocked rear door, police said. The door was ajar when they arrived.

Police said it appeared the assailant went into the home intending to commit burglary, to choke her, but then fled, because personal papers were strewn about the kitchen.
